Q: I never know if my address posture is correct. Is there a way to tell if I'm in the right positions?

—Jim K., Ft. Smith, Ark.

DZ PRODUCTIONS

A: The most important thing is that you feel athletic at address, just like you do when you play other sports. If you're looking for concrete checkpoints, bend from your hips and flex your knees so that your shoulders are over your kneecaps, and your kneecaps are over the balls of your feet. Nail this and you're solid.

—Dan Pasquariello, Pebble Beach, Calif.
